Great Britain

Queen Victoria of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, your British Empire is already strong and powerful.

After your accession to the throne in 1837, the House of Hannover established dynastic links with most of Europe's royal and noble families. At the same time you had to manage the increasingly strong and powerful parliament unwilling to bend publicly to the Queen's orders.

The country has pushed free trade imperialism and as fast become the most evolved country in the world in terms of engineering and industry.

Can you lead the country and its parliament to a successful expansion of the empire, be elected Empress of India and leave a mark strong enough so that your era can become the Victorian era?
